f o r e w o r d

A year in retrospect. Fall filled with new faces, many changes, new courses, King football and the bountiful beauty of the surrounding mountains. Days pass quickly and suddenly a blanket of snow transforms our campus into a vision of loveliness. With winter come dances, basketball, concerts, term papers and exams. Then, spring with the awakening that our year is almost completed. Hours are crowded with baseball, tennis, last-minute projects, May Day, and finally graduation. A year at Appalachian—1956—truly, a year of changes— a new administration, new buildings, new rules, but perhaps the greatest change—the maturing of young minds in the direction of independence and individuality.

To one who has given generously of herself in her dealings with us, demonstrated faith in our integrity, and helped us to understand ourselves and others better, we, the staff of the 1956 RHODODENDRON, dedicate this volume to MISS BARBARA STEPHENSON, a teacher, a counselor, a friend.

New faces, new professors, new classes; all the order of the day—forlorn, homesick freshmen with that confused look—"Can't you do anything around this place without standing in line?"
—forgotten toothbrushes and pillows—"It was a wonderful summer, but it's really great to be back!"—unlimited late lights in the girls' dorms—the appearance of the first issue of the APPALACHIAN —ushering in King Football and the thrill of the first kickoff of the first game—"These freshmen really look younger every year, don't they?"—the absence of the traditional whistle—the aging of a green freshman as he becomes acquainted with his pattern of life for the next nine months and finds himself enveloped in a maze of parallel reading, biology labs, term papers, and orientation—the annual "Y" Big Sister-Little Sister Party—the yells of "linebreaker" that greet some poor, unfortunate freshman who forgot the cafeteria line—the magnificent new gymnasium, the wonderful new addition to the library, and the very,
very much needed addition to the Bookstore—get-acquainted parties at all the churches—rehashing summer experiences and noting the absence of familiar faces—mashed fingers from the "interior decorating" in the dorms—
"Boy, I'll never survive three quarters of Education!"
—pep rallies—settling back into the routine and pattern of it all.

for whom
the crowds
cheered

The cadenced rhythm of numbers that floats on the autumn breeze as the Mountaineers work out every afternoon—the opening game and the first touchdown of the season—the thrill of a perfectly executed end run—hours spent every week in skull practice—a quarterback sneak that gives up an essential first down—freezing weather on game nights—faithful spectators, energetic cheerleaders, and a spirited band—beautiful broken field running that brings the crowd to its feet—a perfectly timed block by some lineman that allows a halfback to reach paydirt—the Tuesday night scrimmages—the trip down to Tampa—injuries, time-outs, and penalties—the rousing chorus of “Hi-hi-y-ike-us” that rises from the multitudes as the quarterback connects with an end for a touchdown pass—the Homecoming game—speeches at pep rallies—kicking an extra point to break a tie in the closing minutes of a game—the crack of Yosef’s rifle as one of the number breaks away and gallops fifty yards for a touchdown that puts the Mountaineers back into the lead—the halftime shows presented by the Band—all the sweat, blood, and tears that went so far toward making football autumn King of the Campus.

Autumn leaves of red, gold, brown, and green that turn the campus and surrounding peaks into a breath-taking riot of color—long afternoons spent on the tennis courts—hikes to Howard's Knob, Rich Mountain, and Tater Hill—"Betcha' a movie that the Dodgers take the next one!"—Religious Emphasis Week with Dr. Robert Holt, Mr. M. T. Lambreth, Rev. Charles Hubbard, and Dr. "Pearly" Gates as speakers—"Mountaineers want bear meat!"—snake dances up the main street followed by high-spirited pep rallies on the hotel lawn—the clang of the Victory Bell as it declares to the world that the Mountaineers have come through again—"Y" singspirations held around glowing bonfires—HOMECOMING—the annual presentation of the Playerafters—the hustle and bustle of last minute float preparations—the parade—the game under cloudless skies—the enthusiastic spectators—the energetic cheerleaders—the marvelous bands—the expectant hush that falls over the crowd as it awaits the crowning of the queen—the dance that always turns out beautifully despite the fears and worries of the junior class—12:00, and then it's history—after supper groups scattered up and down the street in front of the cafeteria—the soft strum of a uke mingled with mellow harmony as a group gathers for a "sing"—the nip that is more frequently in the air as the days grow shorter.

An awareness that the end of the quarter is fast approaching—hours spent in the library reading parallel when you long to be elsewhere doing other things—the cold twilight that greets you now as you step outside the cafeteria after supper—the monotony of endless classes and homework—term papers and projects—gathering in the Girls' Gym from 6:00 'til 8:00 for "courses" in campusology—the few brave souls who attempt to dance despite the ballgame in progress—traveling down to Tampa to see the Mountaineers take on the Spartans—lyccum numbers—"Hey, do you know anybody who has a mealbook to sell?"—the feelings of disgust and hatred that inevitably accompany the 7:00 o'clock r-r-ring of that alarm clock and those heavenly few minutes of sleep that are snatched after it has been knocked across the room—final exams—"burning the midnight oil" over thousands of pages of illegible notes and smoking countless packs of cigarettes and consuming gallons of coffee in a brave effort to stay awake—the harrowing experience of having four exams on one day—last minute preparations for the Mountaineers' trip to the Burley Bowl—"Praise Allah! I passed four out of five this time."—the thrill of the first snow—bringing the football season to a close with the clash with East Tennessee at Johnson City—home for the holidays.

The beginning of a new quarter and a new registration procedure—the annual debut of the fabulous Boone wind—sleet, snow, and more snow—heavy coats, red faces, and fur-lined boots—secret pals in the dorms—shopping for just the right gift for that certain someone—the Appalachian Mountain Forensic Tournament—the multicolored reflections of the lights on the tree in front of the cafeteria and the happiness that is radiated as these reflections fall softly on the snow—the strains of “It Came Upon a Midnight Clear” floating on the winter breeze as you pass a girls’ dorm—the gaily decorated dorm doors—the hush-hush preparations for the Christmas Dance and trying to wrangle some Play-crafter into telling the theme—the magnificent presentation of the “Messiah” by the chorus—the “A” Club initiation—parties by the dozen and trying frantically to figure out a way to go to two on the same night—the election of the Christmas Queen to be crowned at the dance—the merry chuckles of Santa Claus as heard over WATA—trying on evening dresses and borrowing back and forth in preparation for the dance—the campus-wide caroling night—the mad scramble to beat the RHODODENDRON deadline—eating supper to the strains of familiar Christmas music—and then the realization that “There’s No Christmas Like a Home Christmas!”

Back to the grind—recuperating from the long holidays—new clothes, record players, radios, and for the more fortunate, diamonds!—basketball games and wrestling matches in the new gym—trips to “Shook’s” office and the penicillin that you get regardless of your illness or condition—peanut butter and crackers, the staff of dorm life—and the snows came—coffee and conversation at Bill’s during assembly time—Life Purpose Week with Rev. Warren Carr and Miss Miriam Hollis—the whiz of a snow ball as it sails past your ear and the dull thud of another as it finds its target—mid-quarters and the blues which always accompany them—“I’ve seen ‘Gone With the Wind’ five times, but I wouldn’t miss it for anything; after all I am a Southerner”—flying scarves and red faces as Hospital Hill is turned into a “tray trail”—the keen competition in the race for intramural honors—the clanking of car chains on the icy pavements—the “crop” of crutches that seem to go hand-in-hand with icy sidewalks—“What, snow again?”—the election of the campus and senior superlatives—movies at the Appalachian and walks home afterward with the snow crunching under your feet—“I could have made the Dean’s List, too, but I think there’s more to college than just books.”

The silent, snow-covered campus in the early twilight—"But, sir, my alarm clock didn't go off this morning."—late, late bull sessions on religion, politics, sex, segregation, etc.—the magnificent performance of the North Carolina Little Symphony—S.P. Week—"Joe, may I have the honor of escorting you to the movies tonight?" or "Hey, Bob, whatcha' doin' tomorrow night?"—weekends at home and the deserted village that's left behind—"Books? I never touch 'em!"—the swish of the net as the Mountaineers rack up two more points—preparations for the Valentine Ball and then finally the big night—"We need a fourth for just a few short hands."—the oncoming end of the quarter with its hustle and bustle—"How are you fixed for mealbooks?"—"If I live through the next two weeks, I honestly believe that I will be able to survive anything."—the grunts and groans that come from the wrestling room as the Mountaineer matmen work out every afternoon—"Do you have room for just one more in your car at the end of the quarter?"—"I'll graduate at the end of the quarter if I pass freshman English this time."—and, then, before you know it it's time for finals again and the realization that you haven't studied is with you so you stay up to the "wee hours," cram like fury, and pray for the best—"Oh, these carefree college days!"

Time marches on—the beginning of another new quarter with new slates and no back work to catch up on—resolutions—“From now on I’m going to get a good breakfast at the cafeteria every morning instead of grabbing a cup of coffee and a doughnut at the Bookstore during assembly time”—new faces—“She looks younger than most of the other girls. Maybe I can get a date for Friday night”—re-occurring cold snaps that jolt us back to reality—for the seniors, it’s the beginning of the end; for the juniors, observations; for the sophomores, general psychology; and for the freshmen, biology field trips—the sun is with us more and more—trips, retreats, conventions, and club outings—the Carolinas A.A.U.
Wrestling Tournament—the March wind that is ever present in Boone—“College would be O.K. if it wasn’t for the classes.”— the grace and precision of the Flying Fish as they give us “moments to remember”—hours spent in the library doing research work—sunbathing on the “beaches” of White and Lovill—the annual epidemic of spring fever—the lengthening twilight that makes it harder and harder to meet that 8:00 o’clock curfew—spotting the first robin of the season—the anticipation of the fast-approaching Easter season and a few days of glorious freedom.

The long trip back after the holidays—warm spring days—the groups of students loitering along the sidewalks and on the lawns in front of the girls' dorms as there is a mass move from the Bookstore—“I guess I'm a junior, but I might be a senior. Haven't really known what I was in since I was a freshman.”—rainy days that bring raincoats, boots, fatigue jackets, sailor caps, and the like out of closets—long afternoons spent under the tanning rays of Old Sol and the blistered backs and faces that appear afterwards—the sound of horsehide against hickory that fills the air when the Mountaineers take to the baseball diamond—elections with vigorous campaigns that flood the campus with posters, signs, and banners—the Black and Gold Game with its freezing spectators despite the springtime—the deep drop in the Bookstore's coffee sales as its customers move out to the steps to drink Pepsis—“What, time for mid terms again!”—the eternal search for a place to hang your raincoat—the horror of comprehensives—the replacement of wool skirts and sweaters by sleeveless blouses and billowing cotton skirts—the reappearance of the line-up in front of the cafeteria—outdoor physical education classes—“What are you going to do this summer?”—that lazy feeling that engulfs you as you realize that spring is here to stay.

And now the days are numbered and the seniors are the heroes of the hour—these, the fortunate few who have student teaching and national teachers' exams behind them—the feeling of nostalgia that prevails— but life must go on—tennis dates at 6:00 A.M.—that last hike to Winkler's Creek, Howard's Knob or Rich Mountain—the mad rush to finish that last term paper and the hours that you spend in the library when you long to merely lead the life of Riley by sitting in the sun and day-dreaming—putting off assignments and notebooks until a tomorrow that never seems to come—the cries of tree frogs that bring about a wave of homesickness—baseball games and tennis matches—trips to the placement office—the hours spent trying to make that letter of application perfect—MAY DAY—the program made magnificent through the combined efforts of the Band, the Modern Dance Club, and Varsouvianna—the presentation of the Court attendants and the crowning of the Queen—the dance afterwards and the final selection before it all fades into history—“If you are down my way next year, drop in to see me”
—engagements, showers, and weddings by the score—the maze of final exams—packing to go home—Commencement Day—caps and gowns—the graduation exercise—your name is called—a diploma, a degree, and a certificate—suddenly it's a reality.
